

OLP Library Newsletter

December 2018 / January 2019

LIBRARY HAPPENINGS

Finals Week De-Stress Station

With the excitement of the end of the semester, there always comes a flood of stress. That's why the Library offers some ways to relax and give those busy brains a break!

Some things from the station include:

- massage chairs
- stress balls
- card deck w/ Yoga poses and tips
- adult coloring books
- herbal teas
- books on stress management
- magazines (Seventeen, TIME, Darling)
- puzzles

Renaissance Faire Research

All of the Freshmen spent hours in the Library researching various topics for the Renaissance Faire. They relied on books and the online databases for credible information.

Do YOU have an upcoming research project? Don't forget that the library offers access to many online databases! Here's a few:

To access them login to Blackbaud and click on Resources. You'll see the library link there.

Book Related Podcasts

What's the next best thing to books? Talking about books! So why not try out these awesome podcasts that are all about books!? Here are some to check out:

Hey YA

Convos about anything relating to the Young Adult genre..

B&N Teen Blog Podcast

Explores the stories behind Young Adult books.

Recomended

Interesting people talk about their favorite books.

Reina's Reads

by Reina Pimentel '21

Love & Other Train Wrecks by Leah Konen

Many people cast aside romance novels for being too sappy and cliché, but love is such a powerful human emotion that it tends to bring out others. This is an aspect definitely brought out by Leah Konen novel whose pages are filled with pain, love, and explores the insides of broken families. With Ammy on her way to a wedding that'll break her Mom's heart and Noah riding to win back his first love you'll definitely be in for a ride. A great read for anyone especially with valentine's day just around the corner.

The Diabolic by S.J. Kincaid

Diabolics are humanoid bodyguards genetically modified to "love" and protect one person. Despite their human face they are beings bred to kill, fight and ultimately do whatever it takes to keep that person alive. When the senator's daughter faces persecution her Diabolic, Nemesis, steps in to take her place and pretend to be her. How will Nemesis, a cold hearted living weapon, whose never left her person's side fit in at the capital with the richest humans in the galaxy? Read to find out!

Bear Town by Fredrik Backman

This is my favorite book of all time!!! Fredrik Backman captures life in his novel, giving depth to various characters by constantly changing perspectives and describing how it doesn't matter who you are everyone's been touched by hockey somehow. You learn how hockey can tear you down, bring you tears, or even scars but sometimes it's your only joy in life and helps you escape from your own reality. In a town that puts hockey before everything, the definition of everything will be put to the test as will everyone's morals. Beartown's a book that'll definitely make you laugh and cry (sometimes at the same time).

New Books

